HONGKONG, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1878. THE two letters we inserted last night. respecting the recent affair at Wu-shihshan, Foochow, call for a few words of comment. That of "Coincidence" is a most remarkable ebuiltion. Its whole object is to point out that "three of the leading figures in that brochure (Fairlar, Ng Achoy and Mr J. J. Francis' the trio of the public meeting. unfortunate point in this presumably witty and clever reference is that the name of Mr J. J. Francis does not figure. and is not referred to throughout the pamphlet. How "Coincidence." after the Public Gardens this evening. his "glance at the pamphlet," could have imagined that Mr Francis was a leading public generally—is a point on which we shall not venture to offer an opinion. The lucubration of the Rev. A. B. Hutchinson is scarcely more happy. In the course of it the following reproof is administered to ourselves: "And as to your remark about missionaries not committing acts which are technically illegal according 'to the rules of equity, the statute law, or other law for time being in force in England.' is so supremely absurd that I could not call it unjust." We have carefully read through our article and cannot find a word about the "rules of equity," kind, and the Rev. A. Hutchinson appears | beans which were captured by the Waterup a proposition, ascribing it to ourselves and then knocking it down again, all for his own gratification and glory. There is nothing whatever about "rules of equity" or the "statute law" here, while if our correspondent will kindly point out ourselves. We stated expressly in our article in more than one piace, that in it we were merely laying the case for Chinese, as set out in the pamphlet, before our readers; that we were merely giving a resume of the brochure,-a proceeding which was only just, ceeing that we had already inserted several columns of matter giving the missionaries' version of the affair. Consequently using such expressions as "You state that the pulling down of the wretched hovels was without permission," and so

By way of assisting our readers to arrive at correct conclusions on the merits of the affair, we may point out that one or two of the most important of the

Carried unanimously. His Excellency then said that, as he had on last November taken an unusual course.

he had again given the Financial Committee the trouble of looking over the Estimates for 1878. It was not usual for the Goits application upon iguers, with which he | vernor to do so, but he thought that in the first budget he had prepared for the Colony. drawn up without the acquainted, any right it was well he should be guided by the greater local experience of the Council, and he did so. This had worked remarkably well, and he would this tyear trouble the Finance Committee to look into the various proposals in the same way as when the House of Commons sits in Committee. Before next month he trusted that the whole estimates for 1879 would be ready. Another innovation he would like to make. The Finance Committee of the Council was something akin as well as Theologi- position as a foreigner to the House of Commons in Committee when dealing with financial questions : he upon one being well which finally broke did not see why he should deprive the public up in all the in- down the patience of of this Colony of the privilege which was enjoyed in England. If agreeable, therefore, he would allow reporters to be present at the Committee's meetings. The Finance Committee was composed of every member of the Council except himself-all members, official and non-official, except the Governor. The public, the highly intelligent public here, would be glad to know what was to be done before the Estimates were formally laid before the Council. Any gentleman, he need not say, who supported any vote in Committee was not mall, left Singapore at 8 a.m. yesterday, bound to support that vote in Council-he was as free to take whatever view he liked. He certainly had derived great assistance and he expected to derive assistance. It was to be noted that whatever course of the 74th Highlanders will not perform in action he took in this matter could not bind any future Governor, who might go back to the old style of things. For himself he would adopt the system he had sound to work so well. In November last he had after the expenditure of the Colony. Mr Gardner Austin had rightly put into his hands, just as he arrived, the Estimates for 1876, and a few weeks after his (the Governor's) arrival his attention was drawn to the fact that the expenditure called ELEVEN Sikh Constables left this to-day for for the Governor's scrutiny. In 1876 the expenditure was $892,000, while the revenue was only $885,000, so that the expenditure out-stripped the revenue, though fortunately only for a very small sum. Since that time he had carefully scrntinized the monthly estimates of every head of department; and how had this worked? The revenue of 1877 was greater than the expenditure of that year; and he did not know how he could better show them than by reminding them that he had said the balance at end of 1877 would be $287,771, while they found it was $295,512, being in excess of what was anticipated. He saw returns every week of the Treasurer of the Colony, and that dated 12th October was now before him, which showed that the balance now was $873,014, exclusive of what they calle i the Special Fund. That fund was $880,000 until the $10,000 for the China Famine had been granted, and it was now $370,000. Adding the Special Fund they had a credit balance of $743,000. So far as to results. Thanks to his Hon. friends the Auditor General and Colonial Treasurer, he was now in a position to give the three first quarters of the current year. When he framed the Estimates last year, he said that by stimulating the revenue (not by taxation) and looking carefully after the expenditure, the revenue at end of year would exceed the expenditure. Now he estimated in November last for a surplus of $71,000. He knew some of his hon. is little doubt but what they would have friends (though they were good enough to put some confidence in him) were afraid that this would not be realized. The Treasurer now hands him a return of the first three quarters, and these figures proved, so far, a test of what he antic pated. They showed that, instead of $71,000, they had an actual surplus of $85.928, while it was "supreme absurdity," or "injustice," of booters to escape. We believe it is intend- therefore possible that by the close of the year they might have $100,000. Inc. would be interested to know what items of revenue showed this increase on last year ! that was a question of very great interest. The receipts under head of leased lands had been det down as $120,654. If their rent-roll had produced in proportion to '77, they would in the last nine months have bad $90,416; be was happy to say that, instead of $90,000, they had collected $105,000, while by the close of the year it would likely amount to $185,000, justead of $120,000 last year. This referred to lease of land only, not to premiums on sale of land (which could be more properly called capital, and for which they would receive this year a considerable sum,) but to natural reventie. Totiching Stamps, the actual receipts for the 12 months of 1677 had been in all Chinese laudatory addresses, but is $118,488; while for the first three quarters at the same time a not at-all-overdrawn of this year they had amounted to $95,608; giving for the year about $1.7,000, He was bound to say that as in the increase of the tent roll, so this increase was due to s similar source. He had considered it his (Singapord Daily Times.) The number of cases brought under the notice of the Singapore Society for the prevention of cruely to animals during the quarter ending 30th September 1878, was 84. Of these 3 were for cruelty to omnibus horses, 60% for cruelty to hack ponies, 17 for illtreatment of oxen while landing them from the "Tongkanga" &c., and 4 for causing suffering to birds by shooting them with "sumpitans." In 10 cases the offenders were cautioned and discharged by the Magistrate, 16 were convicted and fined, and the remainder were visited by the Agent, who in every case verified that wounded animals and those unfit for labor were not made to work until their condition was improved.

We learn that the advantage of using Dynamite has been recognised by our Port and Wharf authorities. Two or three days ago a rock 20 feet under water near the Borneo Co's Wharf was satisfactorily removed by a catridge or two of Nobel's Dynamite, of which the Company are agents here, with the result that there is now a depth of 30 feet of water at the Wharf, where formerly there was only 20 feet. The l'anjong Pagar Co. have also been utilising this explosive in their new Dry Dock and the attention of the Master Attendant has been attracted to it for the purpose of removing harbour obstructions, as dynamite will detonate notwithstanding contact with water, and thus possesses an incontestable advantage over other powders for subaqueous works. Three years ago, it cost Government some $300 to remove a junk that had sunk in the fairway Channel off Sandy point. Directly she sank her owner and crew abandoned her, leaving it to the Master Attendant to lift her out as best he could. With a charge of Dynamite it might have been done, and effectually, at a cost of about $25 without any danger. Probably when it becomes known among native craft owners, who allow their boats to sink in the harbours, channels, and rivers of the port, through sheer careless. ness in most instances, that the Conservator of the port will have them blown up at once by Dynamite. as all similar obstructions are removed about Liverpool and other home ports, it may be the means of ensuring more care on the part of owners of native craft. The repairs of the unhappy Voorwaarts
